Mr. Chatterton

By: Alexandra Warshay

"One of the sweetest people I know;" "the nicest, smartest guy;" "an absolute angel." These are just a few of the words that students use when speaking of this teacher's character. As a Junior, I had heard stories of just how wonderful a teacher and person this individual is, but had never actually met him. That is, until, in the spring of last year, when I went to the English Department office with Lily Damaskos so that she could hand in a public speaking assignment. After a warm greeting for Lily, he turned to me with a twinkle in his eye and said in his kind voice,

"Hi, I'm Mr. Chatterton. What's your name?"

I replied, to which he gave me a wide grin and a thoughtful nod. Little did I know, he would not only remember my name, but say hi to me in the hallway thereafter even though he wasn't even my teacher yet. I was already so comfortable entering his class this year because he had made me feel so welcome.

I am sure that I am not just speaking for myself when I say that although I only had Mr. Chatterton as my primary AP Lang teacher for a few months, I feel lucky enough to have even had him for that short amount of time. His passion for teaching shines through with the meticulous attention to detail that he pours into each lesson, and I have never met another teacher who makes such an effort to connect with his students. Mr. Chatterton is so widely respected and loved by the students at WHS because he is such a genuinely kind, empathetic, and caring teacher, and these qualities resonate so profoundly with everyone he meets. I have never heard a single bad word spoken about him, and I don't think anyone else has either.

Towards the beginning of this year, Mr. Chatterton suffered a stroke. Although it impacted his speech and motor skills (which, I may add, he has worked tremendously to regain), this incident only reinforced his devotion to his students. In the words of one student, "Mr. Chatterton continues to be as dedicated and committed to our class now as he was at the beginning of the school year." This really is true. Between coming for surprise visits, sitting in on presentations, and sending heartwarming emails, Mr. Chatterton has maintained a consistent and active presence not only in each of his classes, but throughout the school. He is like a famous figure within WHS: he lights up a room when he walks in, and commands attention purely through his excitement and devotion to his craft.

I think we can all agree that Mr. Chatterton's positivity is truly remarkable. With each self-deprecating joke, tale of his poetry-recitation exercises and manifestation of his ever-growing strength, he demonstrates to his students how to face adversity with humor, grace, and tenacity. He couldn't stop being a great teacher even if he tried.

I think we can all agree that Mr. Chatterton's positivity is truly remarkable. With each self-deprecating joke, tale of his poetry-recitation exercises and manifestation of his ever-growing strength, he demonstrates to his students how to face adversity with humor, grace, and tenacity. He couldn't stop being a great teacher even if he tried.

The first time that Mr. Chatterton visited our english class since his incident, I remember being so in awe of his physical and emotional strength. He walked in with the same wide grin that we had all grown to love, and shared stories of his own progress-- a theme we happened to be exploring in class at the time. He told us of how, when he was supposed to be pushed in a wheelchair, he convinced the nurse to let him walk behind it and push it instead. He told us of how, when he couldn't open one of his hands all the way, he would uncurl his fingers and place them on the floor so that he could maintain his exercise regimen consisting of squats, push ups, and stretches in the hospital. His emails were filled with jokes about losing credibility as a public speaking teacher, how poor his handwriting was, and my personal favorite, a conspiracy between his wife and occupational therapist because of an exercise in which he had to clean surfaces around the house. His funny, uplifting, and sincere emails are just one manifestation of his extraordinary personality.

In the words of another student, "Mr. Chatterton has shown us this year what it means to be part of the Westwood community. He has shown resilience and a mental toughness that all WHS graduates should demonstrate." As we all take our separate paths in life, it is important to remember not just the lessons we have learned in the classroom, but the lessons that enrich our lives and push us to be better people in college and beyond. That is the gift that Mr. Chatterton has given our class-- strength, positivity, devotion, compassion, and dedication-- and to him, we dedicate the 2015 Yearbook. Thank you Mr. Chatterton for your incredible service!

Retiring Teacher

"Mr. Chatterton, thank you for your infinite patience, kindness, and understanding. You have done so much good in your life and made such a difference in the lives of your students."

THANK YOU <3

-Liz Collins

"Hey Mr. Chat-town, I have enjoyed your presence here at Westwood High. You have been my homeroom teacher, Public speaking teacher and most of all a real role model. You have more determination than most and I am happy that our paths have crossed."

-Sky Willis

"Mr. Chatterton is one of the strongest and most resilient people I have ever met. His dedication to all of his students is truly inspiring, and his love for the subjects he teaches radiate throughout the classroom. He is such an inspiration both as a teacher and a person and his influence is everlasting. He will be greatly missed by the entire WHS community."

-Lucy Somers

-Brett Hetnik

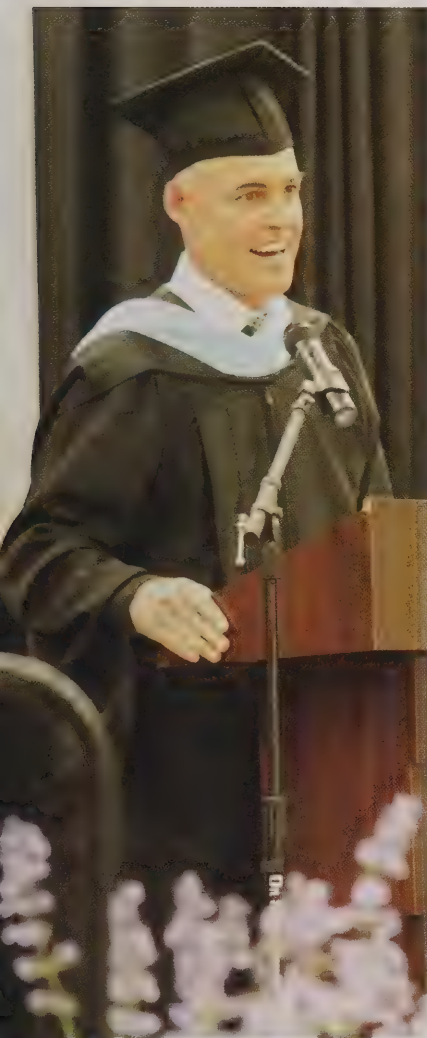

"Thank you for being an amazing teacher and for caring about your students so greatly. You spent hours helping me better my college essay and helping me throughout the process. I wish you the best in the coming years and thank you once again for being such a great person."

-Ethiopia Getachew

Organizations

Academic Decathlon: Academic Decathlon is an interscholastic academic competition. Students discuss a range of topics including literature, mathematics, science, social studies, art and music in preparation for a league competition that qualifies for state and national competition. Students compete for individual medals in specific categories or for team medals in the super quiz category.

Anime Club: The Anime Club's goals are to spread the understanding of anime art and Japanese culture, to learn basics of the Japanese language and to draw the manga art. Club members will develop a library of manga and anime, watch and discuss relevant movies and television episodes together, draw, practice the Japanese language, and make up original manga.

Clubs

Asian Culture Club:

The Asian Culture Club is open to all students and is a great way to learn about other cultures. Its goals are to promote diversity in the school by organizing events on different Asian cultures, ranging from celebrating holidays to sushi-making classes to movie nights. The group provides an opportunity for students to meet and share their interests with each other and within the school community.

Chess Club:

Sponsor: Mr. Keane

Collegium Latinum/ Latin Club:

The Collegium Latinum is primarily a group of students who have been or are currently enrolled in Latin, although knowledge of Latin is not a prerequisite. It is for those interested in discussing and learning more about Roman life, customs, and language, as well as the ancient Mediterranean world in general (Greece, Egypt, you name it!).

Clubs

The Culinary Arts Club:

The Culinary Arts Club gives members a chance to cook one dish per month. The club is limited to 10 people and is first come first serve. Members will meet in the High School kitchen located in the cafeteria where they will learn kitchen safety and how to prepare and cook a dish. There is a $20 fee to join the club.

Drama Club:

The Drama Club provides members the opportunity to informally explore their theatrical talents with activities ranging from dramatic readings to workshop performances.

Fashion Club: The Fashion Club is a fun and fabulous place for students who have a passion for fashion. Whether it be discussion, shopping trips, red carpet games, trend reports, or guest speakers, there is definitely something for everyone. To quote Colin Burke, a cofounder of the club, "Fashionistagram became about more than just clothes. In a culture where you can say horribly mean things over the internet, this account proved to us that social media can be just as easily used for good." French Club: The French Club is open to all students interested in learning more about the language and culture of France and the Francophone world, as well as practicing their French! Throughout the year, we do a variety of social and educational activities like French movie nights, crêpe making, French advocacy during National French Week and for Diversity Day. We have also worked on French-related service projects; past projects have included collecting and sending French books to a school in Senegal and the Walk for Haiti. Meetings are conducted in English and French.

Gay/Straight Alliance (GSA): The WHS Gay-Straight Alliance strives to create a more accepting environment for all people, regardless of sexual orientation and gender identity or expression. This group works toward increasing the level of respect for diversity among students and in our community.

Glassworking Club: Members learn how to manipulate glass rods using a torch. There are three instructional meetings to learn the basic skills involved for all projects. Afterwards members are free to make their own sculptures or to learn more techniques and work with colored glass. We only have 1 torch setup so members will have to sign up in advance for a slot. We will also be doing fusing and slumping using a kiln. Members can come any day afterschool to prep glass for their projects. The kiln can be fired 1 or 2 times a day. Pictured: Dugan Becker. ## Legislative Council:

The Legislative Council plays an essential role in the WHS community. Council positions are elected and the meetings are open to all students and faculty members. The Legislative Council reviews and debates proposals relating to important issues at WHS. Legislation that is passed becomes part of the WHS Student Handbook.

Literary Club:

The Book Club invites all book lovers to read a novel each term and meet one day after school per term to participate in a "book talk." These talks will meet in the Faculty Club where students will also enjoy light refreshments.

Model UN:

The Model United Nations program is an opportunity for students to participate in regional interscholastic simulations assuming the role of diplomats representing the interests of various nations in the UN. Students will develop research, presentation, and negotiation skills while observing the norms of parliamentary procedure. The club participates in conferences at universities and high schools in New England. Model United Nations provides students with a realistic and fun democracy experience! We will travel to conferences in Boston, New York and Washington, DC, assuming the roles of assigned countries and deliberating our way to better and rational solutions to real-life problems the UN faces.

National Honors Society: The National Honor Society is open only to qualified juniors and seniors. Membership qualification is based on scholarship, leadership, character, and service.

Sketches for Smiles Club: Sketches For Smiles is a club where members are able to draw pictures and write notes for people of all ages throughout the community. The main focus of the club is to spread happiness to others and help make someone's day as well as a difference in the overall environment around us. The club meets once a week on Tuesdays in the Studio Art room for about an hour and a half. Anyone is welcome to join, draw and write. If you like art, writing and making people happy, this club is a perfect addition to your academic experience at Westwood High School.

Social Justice Club: The mission of the WHS Social Justice Club is to raise awareness of social justice issues and facilitate positive action to help disenfranchised individuals in society. In particular we will focus on issues affecting marginalized youth including insufficient housing, clothing, nutrition, and educational opportunities. Club Activities may include but are not limited to: Meetings incorporating group discussions, invited guest speakers, reviewing relevant news reports and documentary films to identify relevant issues. Fundraising to finance appropriate causes. Volunteer efforts for shelters and food and/or clothing drives Spanish Club: Spanish Club meets twice monthly (on Thursdays) to explore and celebrate aspects of Latin American and Spanish cultures. Throughout the year, students attend cultural events such as celebrating Day of the Dead, Flamenco shows, concerts, etc. Students are involved in hands-on projects exploring different cultures and exchange letters, recipes and stories with high school students in the south of Spain. One service project that we do each year is raise money for the Jimmy Fund and then attend the Scooper Bowl.

Student Advisory Board:

The Student Advisory Board is comprised of sixteen students, including four elected from each grade to serve as a caucus to develop student positions on issues facing the Legislative Council.

Student Council:

Student Council is an organization of members who have been elected by their classmates as well as some volunteers. Membership also includes the vice president of each grade. The primary functions of Student Council are to organize and execute school events aimed at raising school pride and school spirit and to provide social activities for students. Some annual Student Council activities include the following: Halloween dress-up contest, jr./sr. girls' football tournament, pep rallies, Homecoming, movie nights, dodgeball & volleyball tournaments, and a talent show. Fundraisers include an ink cartridge and technology recycling program and sale of "Super Fan" tee shirts. Membership in the Student Council is a great way to get involved in the WHS community.

Graduation

June 7, 2015

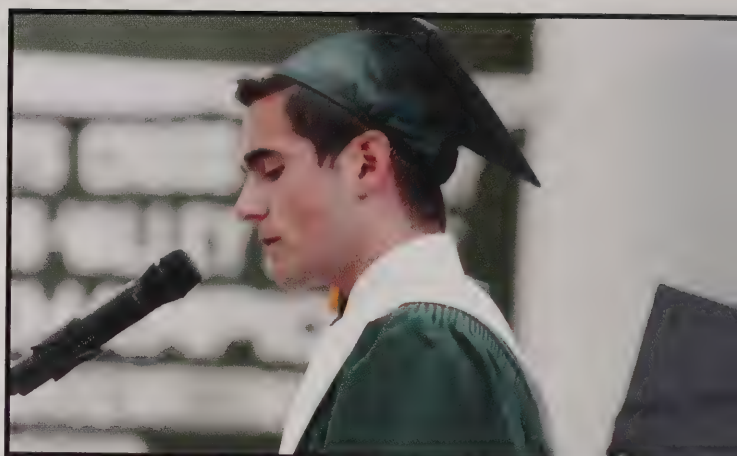

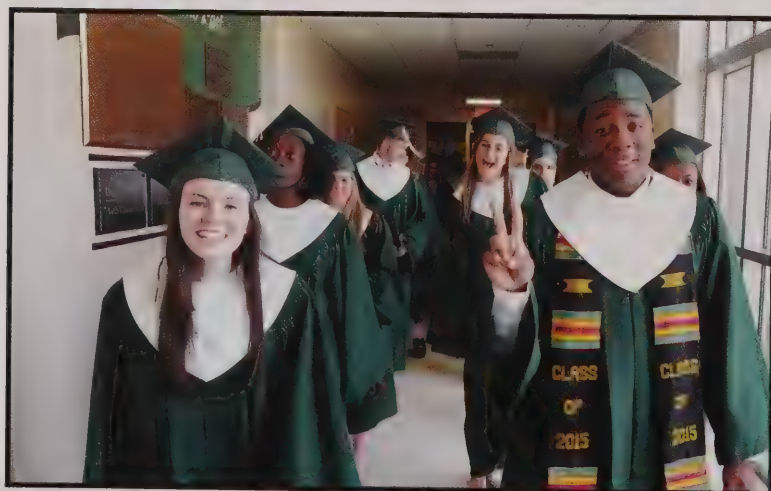

*President of the Class of 2015:
Peter Nangeroni*

"Time is an ever expanding canvas for us to paint our lives on, so don't save all the good colors for later, use them now."

*"Take these opportunities, meet those people, travel down that path
into the unknown today,
tomorrow can wait."*

"You don't know who you are going to be in the future, you don't know what will make you happy then, but that's OK. Allow yourself to change on your own time. Be patient."

From the Principal:

Mr. Bevan

"The speech you are about to hear is, for me, a neat and very gratifying bookend to the last four years. As you might recall, your first day as freshmen was, for me, a 'first day' as well. It was my first day as principal. I don't know about you, but I was nervous and excited.

That day, I delivered a brief speech to you, welcoming you to WHS and encouraging you to make your mark. I told you, "next year, as you wait to take your 10th grade English MCAS exam, the proctor will say, 'Remember to fill in your multiple choice circles completely and make a dark mark. It is also important to erase COMPLETELY any mark you want to change.'"

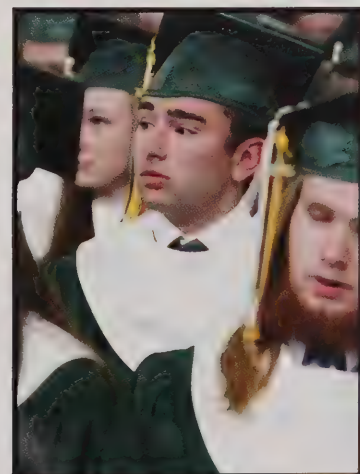

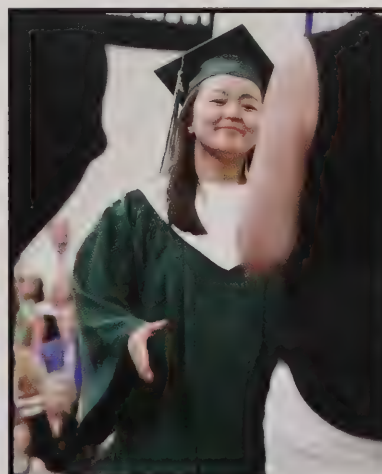

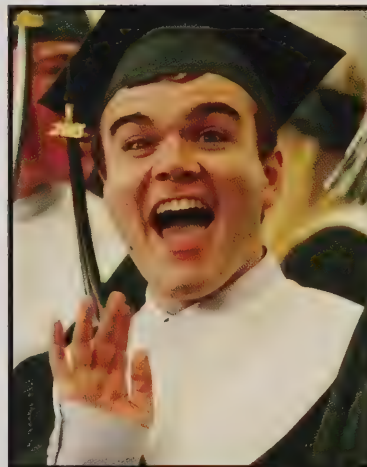

I told you, "This is the year you begin to make your mark. This is the year you begin to erase completely any mark you want to change."

You've done just that. You've grown to be stars in the classroom and on the stage, champions on the field of play and a compassionate and kind group of young adults.

Since we added it, the Westwood "W" has become something of a signature for the building. And, every time we have visitors to the building, they compliment it. It's hard, now, to think of time when the library windows were not adorned as they are today.

I want to tell you a secret about the Westwood "W", though. Part of its appeal is the result of just plain dumb luck: it's a solution that only works for fewer than half of the letters of the alphabet, the ones that look the same when viewed in reverse. Since the windows face the street - our community - it was critical that it looked as good from the outside as it did from the inside. And it does: when the library is lit up at night, it shines like a beacon.

The next time you see Westwood High School and that "W", I hope that you do so with great pride in what you've accomplished here and great hope for what you go on to achieve in your lives."

Vice President Class of 2015: Colleen McDonough

Class History

"All of the parents in this room can probably remember the day their son or daughter stood at the corner of the street, dressed to the nines, eagerly waiting for the big yellow school bus to pick them up for their first day of school. We had just hit the mature age of five years old, and most of us were ready to enter Kindergarten and gain a little more independence. We all wore our little name tags, and learned important life skills, like reading, tying our shoes, and writing in cursive, which come to think of it has only been useful in signing our names and writing that one sentence on the SATs. Some of us tried to throw the school hot dogs down so hard that they bounced and hit the ceiling, so we learned a little about failure too. We had great teachers, who were our first real role models outside of our families. We can all agree that Equipment Day in PE was by far the best day, and the closest any of us will ever be to competing in the Olympics.

As we wrapped up 5th grade, we moved on from Heely's to UGGs, gauchos to yoga pants, Limited Too to Hollister, and Nintendo DS to cell phones as we headed to Thurston for three years of awkwardness. We were split up into the Red Team and the Blue Team, forcing us to step make new friends, which we did: we just never talked to each other face to face because all we did was text. In fact, many "relationships" were started, and finished strictly by texting and chatting on AIM. We walked to Vello's on short Wednesdays just because we could; we played Zoombinis while Mrs. Santabarbara was trying to play "Don't Copy that Floppy"; and then there were the homeroom Pig Races. Who could forget Chris Lestan's intensity during every handball or triball game, Ms. Ballard's endless maps for us to color or Mr. Coleman's life lessons, Mr. Peppercorn's chino money and the royal Baby Pepper, who in fact Kelly Nagle kidnapped for the entire year and never got caught -- until now? Then there was the WOSC trip, where we saw some really great things, but we still probably spent more time on the bus than actually in New York, although if we hadn't, we might have missed out on Walshy's debut of the "I'm Not Afraid" rap.

And although you've all been trying to block this out of your minds for years, we have to talk about those good old middle school dances. There was nothing better than jumping up and down to Kevin Rudolph's "Let it Rock" and throwing your fist in the air. Maybe if we're lucky, Rony will bring back some of his break-dancing moves at the All Night Grad Party.

But before I move on to high school, I think Tim Phillips deserves a shout-out for jumping in the lake at Hale in 6th grade. I'll never forget the look on Mr. Bernazzani's face, .and who knows, maybe if Tim still went here, we could have pulled off our senior prank.

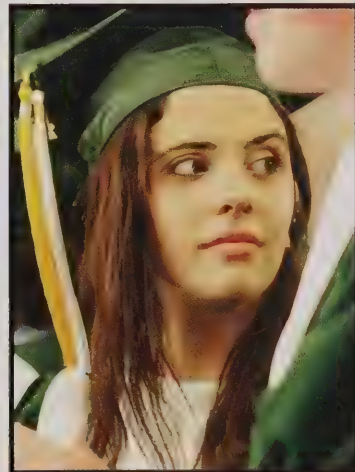

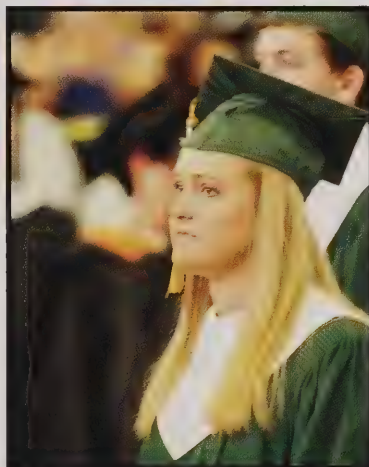

We finally arrived at WHS as lowly freshmen, feeling on top of the world, but quickly being put in our place -- except for Waverly, who was elected Class President in her first few weeks of attending Westwood Schools. The Freshman Safari video, created by some senior Video Production students, made us all feel pretty cool and made us think people were actually somewhat interested in us. Which shows you just how naïve we truly were. Sophomore year, we finally had frees and knew what triple lunch felt like, but the real highlight was the epic Snowball Dance, although I'm still regretting buying a new dress at Forever21 for the two-hour event. During our stressful Junior year, Prom Girl came to the rescue, providing a way for all of us to hear that Nick Draper designed a computer game to ask Melissa Ligure, and Zhen Wang brought a small tree to Kimmy Sykowski's house to highlight the Class of 2015's first round of promposals.

Senior fall arrived and we were overwhelmed with the big questions about next year. Along the way, both our visual and performing arts departments had incredible years. Halley Husted and Louisa Genest were Boston Globe All-Scholastic Art award winners. Shaye Firmin traveled to Nashville as a member of the All-National Orchestra, and one of the most underrated groups in the school, the Robotics Club, never ceased to amaze us by shooting t-shirts into the crowd at the Pep Rally. In athletics, we stood in the shadow of the talented Class of 2014 for three years and finally had our chance to shine, despite people's low expectations. In the fall, we got off to a strong start with the football team making the playoffs, both soccer teams making the tournament, the volleyball team having its best season in recent memory, and the girls' cross-country team winning the Tri-Valley League. In the winter, both girls and boys basketball became TVL champions, and boys hockey clinched the state title. As for the spring, the success continued. The baseball and girls lacrosse teams were TVL champions due to their undefeated seasons, and in track Anthony Vilmenay qualified for Nationals in the high jump. And the icing on the cake was the first-year Ultimate Frisbee team, which was crowned Division 3 State Champions.

Eventually, each of us figured out what we were doing, whether it was deciding where we were going to college, entering the workforce, joining the military, or something else. We finally had some answers. That's not to say that things went off without a hitch. We went through a lot together, both as a grade and as a school, sometimes feeling like we were riding a rollercoaster. It was through these experiences we were able to become unified and ultimately form the Class of 2015.

As we all sit here for the final time before graduation, I urge all of you to think of the memories that have been created not only by our friends but by our peers over the last 13 years. Together we have overcome many obstacles, and Sunday will be the day we officially solidify our accomplishments. I'd like to thank all the teachers, administrators, and parents, but most importantly my classmates for making my experience in Westwood what it has been. Class of 2015, this is it."

This year's yearbook would not have been possible without the hardwork and dedication of many. We would like to give a big thank you to the following individuals for their contributions this year:

Mr. Mao for capturing the spirit of Westwood High School and tirelessly updating your website with photos. Without your talent the yearbook would not have been possible.

Grynn & Barrett for capturing the best side of our students in their portraits and their sports teams.

Jacqi Goodrich and Christina Perrone for putting in hours of work and leading our young staff. We look forward to making your senior yearbook shine!

The Administration for your continued support as we attempt to document all the happenings of WHS.

Ms. Flanders for making the impossible happen and being our Scalpel.

Ms. Anderson for mentoring new yearbook advisors and making this somewhat overwhelming task more manageable.

BPrice & Ms. Kinsman
Yearbook Advisors
